

INCOMPLETE WAREHOUSING RECEIPT SYSTEM FOR CASHEW NUTS

Alberto Gabriel Ndekwa (PhD),
Eva Kapinga,
Gasper Chuwa and Hadija Matimbwa
Ruaha Catholic University

Local Economic Development:
Unpacking potentials for accelerated transformation of Tanzania

INTRODUCTION

The background image shows a woman in a blue uniform and headscarf working in a food processing facility. She is wearing a green apron and green gloves, and is focused on her work. In the foreground, there are large bowls filled with food, likely peanuts. In the background, other workers in similar uniforms are visible, working at tables. The overall scene is a busy food processing environment.

Context:

A number of alternative (direct sales, cooperative).

Why WRS is incomplete ?

FINDING 1: ACCESS TO PROPER MARKET

Implication:

policy that could ensure smooth mobilization of traders

FINDING 2: ACCESS TO FINANCE

Implication:

policy that could ensure smooth mobilization of
traders

A large warehouse filled with numerous sacks of grain, with a man sitting in the background. The warehouse has a high ceiling with a metal truss structure and concrete pillars. A green ladder is leaning against one of the pillars. The sacks are piled up, and some have blue and purple markings. The man is wearing a brown tank top and is looking towards the camera.

FINDING 3: PROPER STORAGE, PACKAGING AND GRADING

Implication:

WRS tend to connect farmers to financial institutions.

CONCLUSION

WRS is a driver for cashew nut market

Acknowledgements
REPOA
WRS Stakeholders